

Missouri Income Tax Information

Public Pension and Social Security Exemption

Retired members of KCPERS that are Missouri tax filers may be eligible to exempt a portion of their pension and/or Social Security income from Missouri income tax. To claim the pension and/or Social Security exemption on 2009 returns, Missouri tax filers will need to file using Form MO-1040, otherwise known as the long form, or Form MO-1040P, short form. If filing on Form MO-1040, you will need to complete the worksheet in Part 3 of Form MO-A and file it along with Form MO-1040. If you were age 62 by December 31, 2009 and received Social Security benefits, you will also want to complete the section for the Social Security exemption in Part 3. If filing on Form MO-1040P, the calculation of the pension and/or Social Security exemption is found on page 3 of that form.

Generally, for 2009 tax returns the pension exemption will be calculated as 50% of your taxable pension and then reduced by the amount of your nontaxable social security benefits, if any. The amount of your pension exemption may be reduced for married couples with Missouri adjusted gross income above $100,000 or for single taxpayers with Missouri adjusted gross income above $85,000. Some of our members will qualify for a minimum pension exemption of $6000 even though that amount is greater than 50% of their taxable pension. As you are planning for 2010 taxes, the pension exemption will increase to 65% of your taxable pension income.

The deductible percentage of public retirement benefits will increase until 2012. The table below shows the yearly percentage limit.

Year	Limit	Year	Limit
2007	20%	2010	65%
2008	35%	2011	80%
2009	50%	2012	100%

For more information regarding eligibility please contact the Missouri Department of Revenue at (573) 751-3505 or www.dor.mo.gov, or consult your tax professional.

Qualified Health Insurance Premiums

Missouri also allows a subtraction from federal adjusted gross income for qualified health insurance premiums. On 2009 tax returns, the subtraction is taken on Line 11 of Part 1 of Form MO-A and filed along with Form MO-1040. The Missouri Department of Revenue supplies a worksheet for Line 11 of Form MO-A which can be found in the MO-1040 instruction packet.
